Dear President Biden, Secretary Becerra, Secretary Cardona, Administrator Carnahan, Director Davis, Secretary Haaland, Director Jaddou, Secretary McDonough, Director Peters, Director Tso, and Secretary Yellen,

On behalf of The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights, a coalition of more than 230 national organizations committed to promoting and protecting the civil and human rights of all persons in the United States, and nearly 100 undersigned organizations, we write to emphasize the urgency for your departments and agencies to fully implement President Biden’s Executive Order Promoting Access to Voting before the end of this term.

The right to vote is the foundation of our democracy. For many Americans, however, it is becoming increasingly difficult to register to vote and cast a ballot. Voter registration remains a hurdle for many eligible voters, particularly people of color. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, 77 percent of white eligible voters are registered to vote, compared to only 69 percent of Black eligible voters, 61 percent of Latinx eligible voters, 64 percent of Asian American eligible voters, and 63 percent of Native American eligible voters.¹ In the last presidential election, more than 63 million eligible voters were not registered to vote.²

As organizations representing a vibrant, diverse democracy movement — including health, immigration, labor, racial justice, environmental, education, disability rights, housing, justice reform, LGBTQ rights, faith-based, and voting rights organizations — we thank President Biden for highlighting the threats facing the American people and our democracy in his recent State of the Union address. We wholeheartedly agree: Now is the time to finish the job and protect and promote our democracy. It is critical that the president continue to use the power of the presidency to expand access to the ballot and safeguard our democracy from those who wish to destroy it.

We want to praise President Biden’s efforts to expand voter registration opportunities through the Executive Order on Promoting Access to Voting (Voting Access EO), signed on the anniversary of the Selma voting rights march in 2021. The EO represents a visionary, whole-of-government approach to expanding voter registration opportunities throughout federal agency programs and helping to overcome the obstacles that prevent many within our respective communities from registering to vote. With congressional action on voting rights now facing a difficult path forward, strong implementation of this EO is one of the most impactful actions the Biden-Harris administration can take to secure the right to vote for all eligible Americans.

There is still much to do to realize the full potential of the Voting Access EO. A recent report — Strengthening Democracy: A Progress Report on Federal Agency Action to Promote Access to Voting — commemorating the two-year anniversary of the Voting Access EO’s announcement shows that while a few federal agencies are on the right track to completing implementation, several others have fallen behind and risk not achieving the Voting Access EO’s potential before the end of 2024. The attached report focuses on 10 federal agencies, which were selected based on their potential for promoting access to registration and voting for large populations, feasibility of voter registration in their agency context, direct interaction with the public, and ability to reach marginalized communities in our political system — especially people of color, people with disabilities, Native Americans, people with limited English proficiency, newly naturalized citizens, students, people with low incomes, and people directly impacted by the criminal-legal system.

Three agencies — the Department of Interior, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and the Department of Treasury — are on the right track to complete implementation and fully integrate voter registration services into their everyday interactions with the public. We applaud these agencies for their demonstrated commitment to promoting access to voting for the people they serve. These programs will provide significant voter registration opportunities for Native Americans, veterans, and voters with low incomes.

However, we are concerned that seven agencies have slowed or stalled in their progress to implement the Voting Access EO. Accordingly, we urge the Biden-Harris administration to carry out the recommendations outlined in the report to fulfill the mandate of the EO, including:

- Department of Health and Human Services: Ensure the integration of a voter registration opportunity into the Healthcare.gov application is fully operational by the Fall 2023 open enrollment period; and launch the promised voting information hub for older adults and people with disabilities.
- U.S. Marshals Service, Department of Justice: Ensure all eligible individuals in federal pre-trial custody have access to high quality voter registration services and assistance voting; make public the results of any internal assessments on these efforts; and leverage its contracts to ensure ballot access for all eligible voters, not just those in federal custody.
- Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice: Ensure all eligible individuals in federal prison across the country can access registration and voting services; and ensure that high-quality information about voting rights is consistently provided during incarceration and upon release.
- General Services Administration: Ensure Vote.gov is a user-friendly and accessible resource for all voters, regardless of disability status, language, conviction history, and geography.
- Indian Health Services, Department of Health and Human Services: Provide high-quality voter registration services, including assistance, at Indian Health Services facilities; and work with interested tribes to support voter registration opportunities at health facilities run by tribes.
- Department of Education: Improve voter registration opportunities for students at institutions of higher learning, including adding voter registration opportunities to the Free Application for Federal Student Aid “Student Aid Report.”
- U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, Department of Homeland Security: Ensure all new citizens have access to high-quality voter registration services at or immediately after all naturalization ceremonies.

In conclusion, strong implementation of the Voting Access EO throughout the federal government would provide additional voter registration opportunities for millions of eligible voters. We urge the Biden-Harris administration to make fulfilling the promise of the Executive Order on Promoting Access to Voting a top priority in the final two years of this term. Now is the time to finish the job by fully implementing this administration’s strong commitment to protecting the right to vote and to ensure all federal agencies are prepared to support their constituents in participating in our democracy.

We appreciate your commitment to protecting the fundamental right to vote, especially as we prepare to commemorate the 58th anniversary of the Selma march.
